Oldham can say 'No' to asylum scheme

ONLY A huge vote for the British National Party on June 10th can stop asylum seekers from being housed in Oldham.

The Labour Government has already earmarked houses in St Paul's, Werneth and Coldhurst that will be used to accommodate asylum seekers, and First Choice Homes, which manages the borough's council houses, will provide the properties. But the town's BNP representative, Mick Treacy, believes that it is not too late to stop the scheme in its tracks. "It will cost taxpayers £2.5 million in housing costs alone for these new arrivals and then there is the additional costs and strain on our already over-stretched education and social services.

MICK TREACY: "A huge BNP vote will stop the scheme in its tracks."

"The people of Oldham have a great opportunity to say. 'No - we don't want this'. A big BNP vote would force the Government to rethink this and if we can get BNP councillors elected, we can ensure that it's not brought in by the back door."

57% immigration rise

NEARLY 700,000 asylum seekers and migrant workers from Eastern Europe arrived in Britain last year according to the Office for National Statistics.

This figure is NOT INCLUDED in the recently released figures from Migration Watch which show that over a five year period up to 2002, immigration into Britain had risen by a staggering 57%.

BNP battle to save Halifax school

THE BRITISH National Party is battling to save a 127 year-old school that council chiefs want to close down.

Mixenden Community Primary School in Halifax faces the chop because Calderdale Council wants to save money and fill surplus spaces at other schools in the town. Despite a 1,200-name petition to keep the school open, and numerous protests from a parents' action group, Conservative, Labour and Lib-Dem councillors voted for closure with just three BNP councillors and one maverick Liberal Democrat opposing the motion.

All our candidates pledge to keep Mixenden Primary School OPEN!

BNP CANDIDATES: Susan Whitaker and Jane Shooter are two of the 14 British National Party candidates standing for Calderdale Council on June 10th. All our candidates have pledged to help in the battle to save Mixenden Community Primary School from closure.

Richard Mulhall, leader of the BNP group on Calderdale Council said that the battle to save the school was far from over.

"Mixenden Primary is an improving school which is recovering from a spell in the doldrums. It just needs more time.

"Levels of attendance are at the highest for two years and there is a real belief that this year's SATS will show that academically the school is going the right way as well.

"But what is most important is that the school is at the heart of the local community and if you close it that community will start to disintegrate. "On a cold dark winter morning you can't expect mothers with young children to relish a long walk to drop them at school.

"Families will simply look to move to be nearer to a school, and when they go so will the other services which depend on their custom. We can't allow this to happen."

New sheltered housing block is for Muslim elders only

A NEW sheltered housing block in the East End of London which opens next month has been reserved by Tower Hamlets Council for Muslim elders only.

The 40 new homes, together with a day centre, have been built on the site of an old people's home that during the last century catered for the capital's more traditional pensioners.

The complex, which has been fitted with all the latest security technology, will provide specialist services such as halal meals, Bengali-speaking carers and Islamic praying facilities.

Tower Hamlets councillor Sira Islam, said that there was a hidden level of need among elderly Bangladeshis:

"The 'one size fits all' approach to social services is no longer acceptable."

Jason Douglas, the BNP lead candidate for the London Assembly elections, told Freedom that such a move was typical of the mentality that pervaded politics in the capital today.

"Can you imagine the outrage if a council offered whites-only sheltered housing, despite this being what many of our OAP's want now.

"There is an agenda amongst London's politicians, from whatever party they come, to fall over backwards to court the ethnic vote. Most of the time it's a subtle and hidden campaign, but sometimes, like this housing complex, it comes out into the open.

"On June 10th we will be giving the British people of London the chance to vote for a political party that will put their interests first".

... but Lambeth OAP social club gets shut down

LOUISA Mullins is losing the social club that she has been going to for the last sixteen years.

The Brixton Sheltered Street Scheme in Saltoun Road, which provided a meeting place for the over-65s, is being closed down by Lambeth Social Services because it doesn't meet the criteria for continued funding.

A council spokesman singled out the issue of 'equal opportunities' as the reason behind the decision - which in plain English means that not enough members of the ethnic minorities were using it!

New face of the BNP attracts media interest

AS MORE than 400 British National Party candidates busy themselves campaigning throughout the country, media interest in the party has reached an all time high. With no money to buy media influence, the BNP relies just on its policies and candidates to make the news and it's turned out to be a magic mix as far as publicity is concerned, because every day we are hitting the headlines.

The impressive credentials of our candidates makes a nonsense of the ridiculous 'nazi' and 'racist' smears levelled against us by the Labour Party and their friends on the extreme left.

Our candidates are from all walks of life and every political background but with one thing in common. They have had the courage to stand up for what they believe in.

Norfolk can't take any more

IMMIGRANT groups and the Race Relations Council in Norfolk have warned that schools and social services can't cope with any more migrant workers arriving in the county.

David Nettlehip, of Great Yarmouth Refugee Outreach, said that many of the new arrivals included young families with children needing schools.

Even Anne Matin, director of Norwich and Norfolk Racial Equality Council, qualified her bubbly enthusiasm for "young and vibrant people who will come and help us make the county what we aspire it to be," with a warning that services needed to be gearing up to ensure people had access to information in an appropriate format.

Matt Single, the BNP's No.1 Euro candidate for the Eastern Region echoed these concerns when he told Freedom: "Doctors' surgery lists in the region are already full and it's almost impossible to find an NHS dentist.

In our schools, teachers are already facing communication difficulties with the children of migrant workers and this is having a detrimental effect on the whole of the class."

Thoughts on Immigration

*The British people were never given the chance to vote on whether they wanted Britain to become a 'multicultural' society.

*The British National Party is opposed to 'multiculturalism' because it fragments society and generates conflict.

*The British National Party seeks to protect and preserve the ethnic and cultural integrity of the British people.

*Labour and Conservative Governments, for the past fifty-five years, have allowed large scale immigration into Britain from the Third World against the clear wishes of the British people.

*Now leading population experts predict that the native British people will be a minority in our own country within 60 years.

*The British National Party will end immigration and the settlement of asylum seekers in Britain.

*The British National Party will encourage immigrants to return to their country of ethnic origin by providing generous financial incentives to help those who want to return home.

New school funding is another Labour lie

WITH opinion polls showing that Labour voters would prefer Gordon Brown to be leading their party, the Chancellor is proving to be as much a tricky customer as the erstwhile Mr Blair!

In his March budget speech, Brown announced some additional education funding indicating that schools would receive a direct payment of £180,000.

BROWN: Proving to voters that he can be as deceitful as Tony Blair.

But one headteacher has exclusively told Freedom that the chancellor is being 'economical with the truth' and deceiving the public:

"Further investigation reveals that this is not new money, but re-packaged old money.

"It represents the School Standard Grant and the Devolved Capital Allowance which can now be spent for any purpose within the school.

"There is no additional funding to the value of £180,000 in the next financial year."

Glenys on the Gravy Train!

LABOUR MEP, Glenys Kinnock has been exposed 'clocking on' for non-existent parliamentary sessions so she could claim a £175 allowance.

The wife of the former Labour leader was spotted leaving Parliament within an hour of signing at least 26 times. Mrs Kinnock, whose salary is £56,358 a year plus lucrative expenses, is said to have made £4,550 from the scam. Husband Neil, who earns £163,453 a year as Euro Commissioner, refused to comment on his wife's behaviour.

Lib-Dems 'on the game'

A FORMER prostitute has been elected as a Liberal Democrat councillor.

Sandra Hobson hit the headlines in 1998 after she conned Channel 5's Housebusters makeover programme to make her brothel more attractive to men.

The Liberal Democrats in Bristol backed Mrs Hobson as their candidate saying they were aware she was a prostitute and believed she was doing nothing illegal!

Zero-tolerance for the criminals destroying our communities

by Tina Wingfield

THE LATEST British Crime Survey shows that public perception of the risk of becoming a victim of crime has reached an all-time high, with the fear of crime highest amongst the elderly and women living in inner-city areas.

Despite the very real impact this fear of crime has upon peoples' lives, the Government and their criminal justice commentators dismiss these fears as being 'unfounded' and 'irrational'.

Safety concerns are answered with an array of statistics claiming to show that criminal activity is on the decrease, and those concerned are portrayed as media-manipulated neurotics.

But the fear of crime and anti-social behaviour is real enough to leave parents in many urban areas afraid to let their children walk to school alone and for the elderly to be effectively imprisoned in their homes after dark.

This fear curtails individual freedom, destroys social cohesion and destabilises community life. It is a reality that needs to be addressed, almost as much as the level of crime itself.

People are afraid because they sense that the battle for law and order is being lost and that public protection has taken a back-seat to other political considerations. People feel that it is the human rights and civil liberties of the criminal, not the victim, that is of paramount importance in today's topsy-turvy criminal justice system.

For our people to feel safe and protected is the most fundamental aspect of civil liberty.

As part of the accepted social contract, we all give up a little of our freedom to the state in return for public protection. The majority of us accept that individual rights are inextricably linked with the duty to behave in a reasonable, civil manner and to uphold the rights of others.

CUMBRIA: A child curfew in Wigton reduced crime and disorder and made people feel safe.

If law and order is to prevail, this contract must be restored as the foundation stone of our criminal justice system.

The criminal justice process must ensure that criminal and anti-social behaviour is punished with measures sufficiently stringent to convince criminals that crime doesn't pay.

The police must make their priority the protection and well-being of the law abiding majority.

There needs to be a return to old-style community policing, focused as much on crime prevention and tackling disorder as on crime solving.

The return of the 'Bobby on the Beat' will rebuild the public's trust and ensure cooperation in fighting crime. Officers must be relieved of the straightjacket of bureaucracy and equal opportunities legislation that restricts their freedom to respond sensibly to incidents of crime.

The principle of zero tolerance for criminal and anti-social behaviour should be upheld by strategies such as the child curfew.

Despite the irrational bleating of bleeding-heart liberals concerned for the civil liberties of a disorderly few, the recent imposition of a local child curfew in Wigton, Cumbria, for example, served not only to reduce crime and disorder levels but, just as importantly, made people feel safer and less fearful.

This kind of 'order maintenance' policing must be backed up by aggressive law enforcement campaigns designed to address serious crime.

High visibility crackdowns on known criminals, such as Cleveland Constabulary's Operation Sabre, should be carried out by all forces. Such campaigns show the criminals they can't terrorise our communities and then demand respect for their rights and civil liberties.

The British National Party has the policies and, more importantly, the will to target the criminals and the hooligans who are destroying our communities. People have a right to feel safe and the BNP will make sure that this civil liberty of the silent majority is protected at all costs.

Our armed forces: sold off and sold out

BITAIN'S armed forces are being forced to sell off vital equipment at knock down prices just to fund Tony Blair's American adventure in Iraq.

Armoured Personnel carriers, Army lorries and other vehicles are being auctioned off at ridiculously cheap prices as the costs of sending our soldiers to the Gulf spiral out of control.

With a £3 billion hole blasted in our country's defence budget, the Ministry of Defence has been forced to sell off £600 million of military equipment which was being held as a vital reserve for the defence of Britain.

So not only does the MoD have to sell off our essential supplies to fund foreign wars of no relevance to British interests, it are being made to sell them at below cost price because the Government needs the money in a hurry.

Army Land Rovers worth £6000 are being sold off for £1500 and nearly new Leyland DAF and Iveco military trucks were being snapped up by private buyers at auction in Lincolnshire in March at between £3000 and £4000 below cost price. The Ministry of Defence has been told to raise £600 million but by selling at such low prices they're having to hawk off even more vital material and strip the defences of our country even barer. If Labour and the Tories want to send our soldiers to fight in America's war, then the least they should do is get the Americans to foot the bill for it! British forces, and their equipment, exist for one purpose - the defence of Britain and British national interests and neither should be put up for sale.

Welcome to the world of positive discrimination

ETHNIC minority police officers are to be recruited and promoted ahead of white colleagues under new plans being drawn up by Britain's top police officers.

The Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) is discussing with the Home Office proposals to introduce positive discrimination across the service in England and Wales.

The scheme would also see selected black and Asian officers offered entry into the police service not as constables, but in promoted posts, up to the rank of inspector.

ACPO says the plan is in addition to the Metropolitan Police's current strategy of fast-tracking black recruits into training.

'Not fit' officer gets promoted

HEAR the one about the senior officer in the Metropolitan Police who got promotion despite having NINE outstanding disciplinary charges against him.

The officer concerned has already faced two corruption trials at the Old Bailey after being the subject of one of the largest ever Metropolitan police investigations.

Welcome to the world of positive discrimination.

The Met are promoting Iranian immigrant Ali Dizaei, to the rank of temporary chief superintendent despite having once said he was not fit to be a senior police officer.

They're over here but our money goes over there!

Youngsters in Bangladesh will get primary school education thanks to a £100 million contribution from British taxpayers.

The handout made the UK the biggest single international donor to the country's primary education development programme.

Our Labour Government's Minister for Asia (?), Gareth Thomas said:

"The UK government is committed to supporting a reduction in poverty in Bangladesh."

English council funds school in Bangladesh

MANCHESTER'S Labour Council is planning to build a school in Bangladesh for the city's children who miss class because of taking their holidays during term time.

The school is expected to be in operation within 12 months and has been allocated a provisional annual budget of £100,00.

Such high expenditure at a time when British schools are being forced to lay off teaching staff due to inadequate budgets takes some explaining away. But Manchester's chief education officer said that the school was essential so that Bangladeshi pupils didn't fall behind in their work when taking extended holidays back home.

Fishermen hounded out of British waters

EUROPEAN Union regulations, unfair quota restrictions and excessive fishery office harassment has made earning a living within the strangled fishing industry so difficult that trawlers are left with no option but to fish further and further away from British waters. EU quotas favouring Spanish and French boats off the west of Scotland have forced two trawler crews to sail more than 7,000 miles away to fish off the south-west coast of Africa. The fishermen spend two months at sea, followed by a month at home. They have to make this horrendous journey just to carry on fishing because British boats are being hounded out of British waters.

Islamic entrepreneurs

THE Government has allocated £320,00 of taxpayers' money for Islamic entrepreneurs in the North West to help them overcome any funding difficulties caused by Sharia law.

Muslim businesses cannot borrow money from conventional institutions such as banks and building societies because Sharia law prohibits them from paying any interest.

Our new Britain is on the high street now!

by Steve Johnson

THE BRITISH Nationalist alternative to the global greed market machine has just chalked up record-breaking success on the High Street and all without monopolising markets or ripping off the shopper.

The John Lewis Partnership, which includes both John Lewis department stores and Waitrose supermarkets, as well as swish London store Peter Jones, topped £5 billion in annual sales for the first time, earning £200 million in profits.

But it is what happens to these profits that shows how John Lewis is special.

They don't vanish into the assets of vast corporate City shareholders, or into secret slush funds on the Virgin Islands.

No, the £87 million profit not ploughed back into the business was shared amongst the people who earned it – the 59,000 staff of John Lewis. They got a bonus equal to six week's pay, up 29% on last year.

John Lewis's workforce own their company. After a year's probation, each staff member, from the girl on the Waitrose checkout to company chairman Sir John Hampson, becomes an equal Partner in the John Lewis Partnership.

It's their company and just like in every other company, their work makes the company succeed, their labour earns its profits. The difference is, they get to keep the fruits of their own labour. It is not stolen from them by exploiters, bosses and City sharks.

JOHN LEWIS & WAITROSE: Profits are ploughed back into the company and the workforce gets a bonus equal to six week's pay.

But John Lewis's co-operative ownership is not just good for its staff. It's good for all of us.

John Lewis's and Waitrose are owned, not by fund-managers in the City or New York, but by ordinary British people.

They don't use their buying power to drive small suppliers, firms and farmers, into ruin.

They don't monopolise the market to squeeze the shopper, and John Lewis has no plans to expand its chain of 26 department stores because the company is owned and controlled by its workers.

It's not a cog in the global greed machine, driven to maximise profit at all costs by faceless fund-management combines, regardless of the social consequences.

So next time you're out shopping, pop into your local Waitrose or John Lewis and look at a slice of BNP social and economic policy in action.

VICTIMS OF TESCO: To enable the supermarket to post its record breaking profits, high street traders, the small corner shops and Britain's farmers are sacrificed on the sacred Labour and Tory altar of the 'free market economy'.

As the big businesses expand, the competition shrinks!

TESCO, BRITAIN's biggest supermarket chain, has just announced that it has squeezed a record-breaking profit of £1.66 billion out of its customers.

This 20% rise on last year's profits is thanks to Tesco's policy of systematically gobbling up all rivals and using its monopoly buying power to force suppliers, such as British farmers, to accept uneconomic prices for their produce.

These low prices are not passed on to the shopper – they go into Tesco's ever-bigger back pocket.

As a result of Tesco's policy of targeting small corner shops for buy-up and takeover, their numbers have dropped by over 20% in the last 10 years.

The reason is that Tesco can and does charge higher prices for the same goods in the smaller town-centre Tesco's stores which spring up from the ashes of the corner shop it has put out of business.

Shoppers pay more and Tesco makes bigger profits.

The British family corner shop, once at the heart of the community, has been squeezed out of existence between the supermarkets above and Asian immigrants below.

As the big businesses expand, the competition shrinks – that's the reality behind our 'free market economy'.

IT'S A SCANDAL: Labour worries over the cost of looking after our elderly, but has no concern providing accommodation and services for the never-ending stream of immigrants turning up on our shores.

Crisis in Care: BNP pledge to Britain's senior citizens

by Tina Wingfield

UP TO 500,000 elderly people in Britain are suffering abuse and neglect at the hands of sub-standard domestic and residential care agencies. Figures produced by the Commission for Social Care Inspection reveal that more than half of the companies paid to look after the elderly are failing to meet even the minimum standards required to retain a care licence. This crisis in care is the result of a deliberate attempt by both Conservative and Labour Governments to wash their hands of responsibility for the care of the elderly in an effort to avoid the costs associated with an increasingly aged population. Lack of government funding, combined with the abandonment of the bulk of care provision to private companies motivated primarily by profit has created a chaotic home and residential care system. The abysmal work and pay conditions available within this resource-starved industry ensure that frontline care is delivered by poorly trained, overworked, underpaid and thoroughly disillusioned staff. Despite the shocking levels of abuse and neglect suffered by the most vulnerable section of our society, mainstream political debate on the issue of care for the elderly continues to be dominated by concern for costs. No such concern, however, is expressed over the immense expense involved in the provision of services for asylum seekers and economic migrants, even though these recipients of the best that British Social Services can provide haven't paid a penny into our National Insurance Scheme. The British National Party, in contrast, is committed to putting the interests of our own people first. Whatever the cost, Britain's senior citizens are entitled to free, high quality, personal and nursing care in the setting of their choice. We will ensure that just that is delivered.

DESERVING: Our old folk are entitled to free, high quality, personal and nursing care in the setting of their choice.

British Sovereignty destroyed by stealth

FIGURES supplied by the European Commission reveal that the scale of the EU's lawmaking dwarfs anything produced by the British parliament and is increasing by more than 20,000 pages a year. Despite successive Conservative and Labour Governments assuring the British public that membership of the EU would not curtail parliament's sovereignty over the key areas of government, the latest Official Journal includes 23,000 pages of new legislation. The number of new documents generated by the Commission each year now amounts to well over two million pages of legislation which cover almost every area of British government, including tax, the economy, health, education, foreign and defence policy, immigration, crime and justice. Blair's u-turn on the issue of a Referendum on the EU constitution is not quite the surprise political commentators would have us believe. The purpose of the Referendum is to fool the British public into believing that government from Brussels is an option over which they will be allowed to exercise choice. In fact, the process of handing over control to Brussels began many years ago when the Treaty of Rome was agreed by a Conservative Government, and the covert pursuit of European integration has continued ever since without the consent of the British public. There is only one way to secure Britain's right to govern itself, and that is to withdraw completely from the European Union.

EU LAWMAKING: 23,000 pages of new legislation every year!

PLEASE SUPPORT OUR EURO ELECTIONS FUND

IT IS vital that we raise £250,000 in order to stand as many candidates as possible in this year's European Elections. So we need all the help you can give for what could be the most important election campaign that the party has yet contested.

The British National Party intends to stand in every Scottish and English seat and also in Wales. With more than £200,000 raised already, all we need is one last push. We have a very good chance of winning seats, success that will change the whole political spectrum of politics in this country. It will allow us access to funding the party can use to grow even faster and closer to a Westminster landslide.

Also the best way to prevent further integration into a non-democratic European Superstate, is to stop it from the inside.

Please make all cheques out to "Election Fund" and send them to THE SECRETARY, PO BOX 16, YORK YO61 3YH. Please send a SAE for receipts of £25 or under.

British National Party WHERE WE STAND

CRIME: A crack-down on crime with more 'Bobbies on the Beat'. Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists. Zero tolerance for drug-dealers and violent thugs.

IMMIGRATION: An end to immigration and the scandal of bogus asylum seekers flooding Britain. Use the billions now wasted in foreign aid to fund generous 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their land of ethnic origin.

INDUSTRY: British ownership and control of British industry and resources, including the mass media. Protection of British jobs and industry by selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.

HEALTH: We will use the vast sums of money now wasted on funding our membership of the EU for the restoration of an effective national health service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.

EUROPEAN UNION: British withdrawal from the European Union. We will trade with Europe where it benefits Britain, but want no political ties or monetary union.

EDUCATION: A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.

ENVIRONMENT: A healthy environment for a healthy people - the protection of our countryside; a ban on greenfield-site house building except in exceptional cases of genuine local need and an end to field trials of genetically modified crops.

FARMING & FISHING: The regeneration of British farming, with the objective of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food. The restoration of the fishing industry through protection of our traditional fishing grounds.

GOVERNMENT & COMMUNITY: The establishment of a government that puts British interests first. A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.

FREEDOM: A massive expansion of freedom and democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people. The adoption of popular referenda and high technology direct democracy.

DEFENCE: An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality. No British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and the reversal of defence cuts which have weakened our Armed Forces and cost thousands of jobs.

REMEMBER! It doesn't matter if you don't agree with us on every last thing. Like all other democratic political parties, the BNP includes some members who disagree with one or two policies. Just ask yourself whether you agree with more of our policies than those of the other parties. Most people do, which is why we are the fastest growing political party in Britain today.

London needs the BNP

Greater London Assembly Election:
London Mayoral Election:
European Election London Region:

THE BRITISH National Party launched its manifesto for the Greater London Assembly and London Mayoral Elections at the beginning of May.

Entitled London needs the BNP the manifesto outlines BNP policy on transport, housing, education and law and order.

The introduction to the manifesto warns that within another generation, without political change, London will not even be recognisable as a European city. It goes on:

"The remaining British people in London are faced with progressive marginalisation in our own capital, constantly fuelled by the old political parties and media who blatantly favour the interests of anyone from anywhere else in the world above our own citizens."

On transport the BNP says . . .

"The first thing that needs to be done is to make the capital's public transport free of crime once again, as it used to be not so long ago. People should not have to travel in fear."

On housing the BNP says . . .

"The almost unbearable pressure for new homes, which has fuelled the property price boom and priced most Londoners out of the market, is directly linked to the influx of hundreds of thousands of 'asylum seekers' and economic migrants to London.

This is another problem that can only be tackled by addressing the cause."

On education the BNP says . . .

"Stricter discipline must be brought back to the classroom. Incompetent teachers should be sacked.

"There should be a concentration on mastering the basics, the 3Rs, as levels of literacy and numeracy are depressingly low."

The BNP calls for a policy of 'zero tolerance' for London's criminals arguing that . . .

"Forty years of law and order liberalism have failed - miserably.

"As a result, crime is now out of control in many parts of our once great city. British citizens live with constant fear of crime - crimes like rape, mugging and burglary have rocketed in numbers in recent years."

Poll predicts BNP GLA breakthrough

THE BRITISH National Party is poised to make a breakthrough in the London Assembly elections.

That's according to the London Evening Standard on 10th May after the survey they commissioned by polling firm, YouGov, also found that support for the BNP in the capital was at the crucial five per cent threshold.

"This could see the party, which calls for all immigration to be stopped to ensure the British people retain their homeland and identity, take a seat on the Assembly," the Standard informed its readers.

The survey was welcomed by Jason Douglas, the BNP No.1 for the GLA elections. He told Freedom:

"The fact that 5% of Londoners have been prepared to tell the pollsters that they are supporting the British National Party is very encouraging indeed.

"People who vote BNP are in the main very wary of telling anyone of their intentions. If 5% have had the courage to say they are voting BNP, then there is probably at least another 5% who will do so, but will keep this information to themselves."

“Two parties, one passion - Freedom!”

French Presidential runner-up, Jean Marie Le Pen, helped the British National Party launch our European Elections campaign at a press conference in Manchester. In the evening he was guest of honour at a black tie dinner in Wales and here we let the pictures tell the story of a memorable evening.

A lesson to learn from the last collapse of civilization

IN HIS acclaimed book, Facing the Ocean – the Atlantic and Its Peoples, Oxford University professor Barry Cunliffe paints a grim picture. He writes:

"The declining population within the empire and the rising population outside created a marked, and increasing, disparity along a fracture line, thinly manned by the army. And so the pressures built."

"Other contributory factors – rising sea levels and deteriorating climate, the barbarian predisposition to raid to sustain their elite systems, the social dislocation created by the Roman market for slaves, and many others – exacerbated the pent-up energies of the barbarians.

"Meanwhile, to the south, the rotten core of the empire began to disintegrate as the birth rate reached dangerously low levels. What followed was a natural biological readjustment."

Professor Cunliffe is writing about the Roman Empire, but make a few minor changes and it all starts to sound awfully topical.

The burgeoning populations of the Third World in place of the barbarians. Islamic terror attacks for barbarian raids. The import of immigrants for cheap labour rather than slaves – but with similar effects of 'social dislocation'.

Global warming is causing our climate to deteriorate too and once again our sea levels are beginning to rise.

The disparity of birth rates between the West and the Third World is as great as it was between the Roman South and the barbarian North.

The 'natural biological readjustment' that followed then was the Fall of Rome, the collapse of civilization and the centuries of savagery we call the Dark Ages, when entire nations died.

Are we now living through the first stages of the Fall of the West? Will our children or grandchildren see the bloody collapse of the highest civilization ever to be built on Earth?

If you don't want to risk this catastrophe happening, you can make a stand on June 10th. A vote for the British National Party will show our political establishment that you are worried about what the future might have in store for us.

A big vote for the British National Party at these elections will help focus the minds of our politicians on the dangers facing our shrinking white society in Western Europe.

SOUTH EAST BNP EUROPEAN ELECTION LAUNCH: At the press conference on the banks of the Thames at Runnymede by the Magna Carta Memorial, our top five candidates pose for photographs. (Left to Right): Former Tory Timothy Rait; No.1 candidate Brian Galloway; Julie Russell, a BA (Hons) graduate in German and Italian; veterinary surgeon Dr Peter Lane and company director Roger Robertson.

WHILST deserving British people who have contributed for years to the well-being of the country are left without vital services, it seems that this Government is happy to hand out tremendous amounts of taxpayers' money to people who have made no contribution whatsoever to Britain.

It has been reported that health tourism is costing the National Health Service up to £200 million a year. In three months at the end of 2003, 882 pregnant mothers from overseas were treated at seven London hospitals, costing the British taxpayer £1.32 million. Of these, 28% were from Africa, 8% from the Caribbean and 62% were from Pakistan.

Send a clear message to Downing Street!

It has also been revealed that many types of specialists in Britain are already being contacted for appointments by foreign nationals from the 10 new countries that have just joined the European Union.

I hope the people of this country will send the clear message that enough is enough to Downing Street, by voting for the British National Party in the June elections.

Mrs J. Jordan, Preston.

Learning from India!

IN a bid to protect national security and reduce criminal activity, India's Interior Ministry has announced that it will launch a campaign this year to deport more than 20 million illegal immigrants from Bangladesh.

Yet our Labour Government couldn't even deport 3,000 illegal immigrants this year, complaining about the feasibility of removing such a 'large number' of people from Britain.

Maybe Tony Blair should send David Blunkett out to India and let their Interior Ministry show him how it can be done!

Margaret Thomas, Barking, Essex

Minorities embarrassed

IHAVE just spent the morning reading every part of your web site and I feel that I am no longer alone in my thoughts and views on the way the country is being run into the ground by this Labour government.

I work in the health service and have to watch everything I say in case I utter a word which has been added to the growing list of things which are deemed to be politically incorrect. Many people from the ethnic minorities feel acutely embarrassed by these do-gooders using them as a reason to kick up a stink over traditional words and sayings which had no derogatory meaning until these politically correct fanatics put one into them.

For years both Labour and Tory Governments have ignored the hopes and aspirations of the British people but it is now time for a change. Good luck to all the BNP candidates standing for election throughout the country on June 10th.

Mrs Anne Wicks, Birmingham.

Second class citizens

DURING a recent meeting of my Residents' Association, I asked Croydon Council's Housing Participation Officer representing our warden controlled sheltered accommodation for the elderly, whether reports that asylum seekers would take preference over indigenous British people for vacant flats were true.

I was informed that preferential treatment for asylum seekers was indeed required by law.

When was this put onto the Statute book? And by whom? I certainly can't recall any process of consultation with British taxpayers.

For how much longer must the British people pay for the privilege of being treated as second class citizens in our own homeland?

Wishful thinking?

PETER Peacock, Scotland's Education Minister, tells us that the asylum seekers arriving in Glasgow represent the 'New Glaswegians'.

I suspect this might be wishful thinking as these latest arrivals will have trouble mastering the local accent.

Despite living in the city for a number of years, I still have trouble getting the local people to understand what I'm saying.

Mr. D. Hamilton, Glasgow.

Over represented

MOST British actors, unlike their familiar screen counterparts, earn very little. They work in fringe theatre or do other jobs while trying to find acting work.

It is generally believed in the industry that one's chances are maximised by having a photograph and resume in the industry catalogue The Spotlight.

This is costly, with the entry and photographer's fee proving quite a financial undertaking for someone struggling to find work.

All actors face a challenge, regardless of race or religion, but those from the ethnic minorities are very fortunate to be hugely over-represented on our television screens.

It was surprising therefore, to find this in the Spring Equity Journal:

"Equity and The Spotlight have published a new directory of Equity's African, Caribbean, Oriental and Asian members . . .

The book is now being sent to over 1,800 casting directors and others throughout the industry . . .

The Spotlight has met all the costs of compiling and printing the book, which has meant that the members themselves have paid nothing."

So as a white actor I have to pay for my entry in The Spotlight, but ethnic minority actors get it free! Guess where my vote is going next month!

What a double act!

THE BBC's main website is currently recommending the 'Unite Against Fascism' website. What a double act. While the BBC assaults our minds, the UAF thugs assault our bodies.

J. Cotterill-Attaway, Nottingham

Battle of Britain veteran backs BNP at June Elections

THE BRITISH National Party's European Election campaign in the South West was delighted to receive an endorsement from Squadron Leader Douglas Tidy MA RAF (ret).

Over the last 12 months from his home in Buckfastleigh, Douglas has been busy defending the BNP corner on the internet. He has been active amongst the myriad of web-rings which keep our servicemen, past and present, in touch with each other.

"I'm getting a very positive response from most people", the 81-year-old former member of No.74 Squadron told Voice of Freedom.

"My debate with a former RAF Padre created a great deal of attention."

Douglas Tidy's service with the RAF in the Second World War started during the Battle of Britain in 1940 as a wireless operator in the Operations Room at the Fighter Command Station of Portreath in Cornwall in 1941.

He went to the Middle East in January 1942, (having flown in Wellington aircraft in Britain), and flew in Blenheim and Lockheed Hudsons, after an attachment to the Transjordan

SQUADRON LEADER DOUGLAS TIDY MA RAF (Ret): Today and back in 1942 when he was with the famous No.74 'Tiger' Squadron.

Frontier Force. He was in Egypt, Palestine, Iraq, Iran, Masirah, and Aden before returning to the UK where he served at Haverfordwest with Mosquitoes, finishing the war at Mount Batten.

After the war, he took an honours degree at Oxford in English Language and Literature and did a post-graduate Colonial Service course in 1950-51. In the following years, Douglas was a District Officer in Nigeria, and spent two years with the BBC before returning to the RAF and retiring as a Squadron Leader in 1966.

He explained why he's supporting the British National Party on June 10th: "I'm dismayed over how our politicians have pushed for acceptance of multi-culturalism whatever the cost to the cohesion of our society. I'm worried over the rise in crime, the congestion on our roads and the sorry state of public transport.

"Uncontrolled immigration into our cities has led to white flight to our rural areas. This has pushed house prices beyond the reach of first-time buyers.

"The EU's obsession for more and more human rights laws has made a mockery of national government and natural justice."

It's so much more than just a lottery game!

THE British National Party is very proud to announce the launch of the British National Lottery.

This game gives members and supporters the opportunity to help the growth of the BNP as well as a chance to win prizes.

The lottery will finance improvements in the efficiency and running of the British National Party, and unlike the Government's Lotto nothing will be given to asylum seekers or one-legged ethnic minority lesbian associations.

This first Euro Election campaign draw features a first prize of £500, second prize of £100, and a third prize of a year's subscription to the British National Party's Voice of Freedom newspaper and the magazine Identity. Members will automatically be sent a book of tickets to purchase or sell on in their membership bulletins, but further tickets can be purchased by members and supporters by sending a cheque or postal order (made payable to 'British National Lottery') to the promoter at BNL, P.O. Box 5674, Inverness IV2 7YL. Tickets cost only £1.00 each and can be purchased in any quantity.

The draw will be made on Saturday the 29th of May 2004 and winners will be notified by post.

The prizewinners names will then appear in BNP publications and on our website, in compliance with the Lotteries Act 1976.

Playing to win our nation back

The British National Lottery

NB Entries must only be sent to BNL, P.O. Box 5674, Inverness IV2 7YL. Any entries submitted elsewhere will be returned to sender and not entered in the draw. Only payments made payable to "British National Lottery" will be entered in the Draw. Incorrect entries will be returned.

You must be aged sixteen or over to play.

Morley meeting

THE BRITISH National Party launched its European and local elections campaign in Yorkshire with a packed meeting at Morley Town Hall. Chairman of the meeting, Tony McDonnell, announced that the BNP election campaign will be the most comprehensive ever seen in the county. Speakers included Nick Cass, our No.1 European Election candidate and BNP Chairman Nick Griffin.

'Barnsley Eight' headlines as BNP declares 101 candidates in Yorkshire

THE British National Party is to field 101 candidates in the local elections in Yorkshire – more than twice last year's figure.

The BNP is standing 75 candidates in West Yorkshire, 22 in South Yorkshire, three in Hull, and one in North Yorkshire.

By close of nominations the party had 23 candidates in Leeds, that's up from just one two years ago, and eight last year. There are also 16 candidates in Kirklees, 14 in Calderdale, 12 in Wakefield and 10 in Bradford.

In Sheffield five candidates are standing – three in wards in Home Secretary David Blunkett's Brightside constituency.

In Rotherham, Marlene Guest, and Mick Bradbury will be the first BNP candidates ever to stand in the town.

BNP vote in Hillingdon would get Euro and GLA candidates elected

VOTERS in Hillingdon in West London dealt a crushing blow to both Labour and the Tories by switching their allegiance to the Liberal Democrats and the BNP in the South Ruislip by-election.

The seat had previously been a marginal between the two main parties, but on April 29th, political opinion swung dramatically away from the two main parties as the Liberal Democrats took the seat with 34% (up 24%), from the Tories on 30% (down 16%) and Labour 18% (down 23%).

The British National Party didn't stand the last time the ward was contested in May 2002, but Gareth Jones was able to pull an incredible 15% share with his 434 votes.

Ian Edward, the BNP's organiser for Hillingdon, was delighted with the result and was full of praise for the hard-working campaign team.

"Everyone played their part and it was a very good team effort. For the last few days there was interference in the election from the goons of the UAF, but we didn't let that distract us and just got on with the job. Gareth was an excellent candidate and a great ambassador for the party."

This sort of vote percentage across London would see Chris Roberts elected to the European Parliament and Jason Douglas elected to the London Assembly.

It has provided a great morale boost for the membership of the British National Party in this last election fought before June 10th.

London Mayoral Election

THE BNP are taking legal advice to ensure that ALL 2nd preference votes are counted should there be an inconclusive result. In Stoke in 2002 the BNP was denied victory when only the 2nd preference votes of the top two candidates were counted.

Parents back BNP governor
A WITCH-HUNT against a BNP election candidate by a teachers' union spectacularly backfired when it ended up providing the party with some excellent TV coverage.

Tony North, who is the BNP's No.1 candidate for the South West in the European Election, is a parent governor at his local school.

NUT boss, John Bangs said this was unacceptable, but when BBC News followed up the story it found that parents at the school were all in support of Tony - except one, who wanted to remain anonymous!

Tony North told BBC News: "The NUT's attitude shows a lack of knowledge of the role of governors. You leave your politics behind when you enter the school gates."

MARLENE GUEST:
The former Lib-Dem, along with Mick Bradbury, will be the first BNP candidates ever to stand in Rotherham.

Lib-Dems and UKIP trounced in Telford

THERE WAS another important by-election test for the British National Party in Madeley Ward in Telford, Shropshire, on April 22nd and the BNP candidate Martin Coleman, came through it with flying colours.

Martin needed to poll 11% to keep the party on target to get an MEP elected in June, and yesterday his small and inexperienced campaign team secured 188 votes which amounted to a very healthy 13.0%.

As with our campaign in Crewe in Cheshire last month, where the BNP candidate Mike Beardwood, polled 12%, Telford was another completely new area for the BNP and support for the party was a totally unknown quantity.

Labour, who topped the poll last May, repeated the victory but with a reduced share of the vote and again just got the better of an Independent candidate. The Tory vote was also down, while the BNP polled nearly double the Lib-Dems. It was a thoroughly embarrassing evening for the media-puffed UK Independence Party who trailed in last with a derisory 36 votes, just 2.5%.

DELIGHTED: Telford candidate, Martin Coleman with a Madeley voter and West Midlands European Election candidate, Simon Darby.

Simon Darby, the British National Party's No.1 Euro candidate for the West Midlands, speaking after the count said that the result was full of implications for June's elections:

"It goes without saying that I'm delighted that we not only achieved our target percentage but bettered it. Shropshire is one of our weakest areas in the region and to poll 13% is a great result for us."

"But the story of the night was the failure of the Tories to win a ward that was there for the taking. With Labour in chaos nationally and thoroughly discredited locally by the Madeley councillor forced to resign, the Tories should have romped home with a huge majority, yet their vote was down by 4%."

Simon Darby was also delighted that Martin Coleman had polled FIVE TIMES the UKIP vote. This sends out a clear message to all anti-EU voters to rally around and support the BNP in the run-up to June 10th.

A TALE OF TWO TEACHERS: Clive Searle (circled) believes in the politics of threat and intimidation. Simon Smith (right) believes in standing for election to give people the chance to vote for him if they agree with what he says.

Who would you prefer to teach your children?

The Screaming Protestor

CLIVE Searle teaches geography at Turton High School in Bolton. He is a leading member of the extreme left-wing Socialist Alliance in the North West and edits their newspaper Turn Left which advocates direct actions against anyone whose politics they disagree with.

He says he is proud of being involved in the attempt by the street thugs of Unite Against Fascism (UAF), to deny freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of movement to members of the British National Party launching their European Election campaign in Cheshire on Sunday 25th April.

Searle was also at the forefront of the attack on 74 year-old French presidential candidate, Jean-Marie Le Pen, and his role in the assault was clearly illustrated in a photograph on the front page of the Daily Telegraph. Clive Searle says he doesn't think his actions brought the reputation of Turton High School into disrepute, and apparently he is not even embarrassed about the enthusiasm he showed in the Bolton Evening News for his UAF chums hurling bricks at the police from a building site during the disturbance.

The Election candidate

SIMON Smith is a maths teacher at St Peter's Catholic Secondary School in Solihull.

He's been a teacher for ten years and has represented his county at chess. Simon is proud to be a member of the British National Party, an accredited political party with the electoral commission, and which has elected representatives.

Simon Smith is worried about the state of our country and that is why he is standing in the European Elections in June, so that he can give the voters the chance to say whether they agree with him or not.

Members of the BNP have to try to raise £280,000 so that candidates with the courage like Simon are able to contest these elections.

On April 27th the thugs of the UAF arrived at St Peter's School where Simon Smith was taking a lesson.

One of his pupils told Freedom: "People with placards were running down the corridors looking into classrooms. They threw stones and were chanting slogans outside it." Later that day the governors of the School decided to suspend Simon Smith from his position in the school to avoid further disruption to classes.

Tony Blair wants to end shipbuilding on the Tyne

SHIPBUILDING on the Tyne will come to an end in 2006 if the Government continues to withhold vital Ministry of Defence orders.

Swan Hunter shipyard in Wallsend has warned that the company's 1,500 highly skilled workers will be sacked and the yard moth-balled if the Government continues to deliberately delay promised multi-million pound building contracts.

Swan is due to finish work on its current MoD contract in 2006 and expected to complete two new aircraft carriers before beginning work on a Royal Navy auxiliary hospital ship in 2008. But the MoD has now postponed the aircraft carrier order and left the company facing a potentially ruinous two-year gap in its order book between 2006 and 2008.

SWAN HUNTER: Labour wants the Wallsend shipyard shut down so that the Ministry of Defence can get its ships built at a cut price in Europe.

Although directly responsible for the crisis situation now threatening Swan's survival, the MoD has refused pleas to rescue the company by bringing forward the hospital ship order to 2006.

Disillusioned shipyard workers fear that the delay of contracts is part of a deliberate strategy by the Labour

Government to reduce defence costs by getting ships built in Europe.

Severing Swan's lifeline of contract work will destroy this beleaguered survivor of the North East's once flourishing shipbuilding industry and free Tony Blair to transfer promised contracts to cheaper foreign companies.

British pilots to be trained by foreigners

THE LABOUR Government is planning to sell off the training of our Royal Air Force pilots to a foreign-run company.

Under their proposed 'Military Flying Training System' scheme, the RAF's own flying schools, which have trained the defenders of our skies for over 75 years, will be shut down. RAF pilot training will be sold off to the highest bidder, providing a lucrative 25 year contract costing us taxpayers at least £12.5 billion.

Four bidding consortia are sniffing round to grab a piece of the action but none are wholly British companies. Two have no British involvement whatsoever, one being a US-French Boeing-Thales co-production and the other all American.

The two other possible buyers of RAF training include British companies (if BAE Systems isn't taken over soon by the US General Dynamics combine, as looks increasingly likely) but are mostly foreign.

Labour's privatisation plan for the protection of our country is certain to end up with British taxpayers being asked to pay foreigners to train the RAF pilots who protect us.

Douglas Bader must be spinning in his grave at the very idea!

BNP would ban ritual slaughter

LABOUR'S hypocrisy over the banning of hunting on animal welfare grounds has been fully exposed after the Government backed the barbaric practice of ritual slaughter of animals without any pre-stunning.

It's a decision that has angered the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which has campaigned to end this cruelty. Labour turned logic on its head when announcing at the end of April 'that a ban on ritual slaughter for halal meat would not secure an overall improvement in animal welfare'. Cattle and sheep will therefore, continue to be subjected to the process of having their throats cut whilst they are still fully conscious and being left to slowly bleed to death.

Labour also rejected proposals to label halal meat to prevent it from finding its way onto British dinner tables.

The British National Party would ban ritual slaughter outright and BNP councillors will object to any licence being granted for premises where this obscene practice takes place.

Bradford halal gangs target N. Yorks sheep

A NORTH Yorkshire farmer was left distraught after he had a flock of sheep stolen on the eve of their lambing.

The 251 ewes in lamb were taken from a farm at Aislaby, near Whitby. The BBC covered this sheep rustling story on their lunchtime news bulletin and described the reasons behind the theft as a 'complete mystery'.

However there was no mystery according to North Yorkshire police. A witness saw three Asian men rounding up the sheep into a white lorry, while a local farmer told the local newspaper:

"This is the work of lalal gangs from Bradford and Manchester. The sheep will be illegally slaughtered and in a curry before the end of the week."
